Allegations ignite gas-plant scandal

Stirrings of a spring election. Wynne distances herself from McGuinty staffer cited in police investigation

It's the $1.1-billion question at Queen's Park.

Will the latest revelations surrounding former premier Dalton McGuinty's cancellation of two gas-fired power plants to help the Liberals win five seats in 2011 finally spark an election this spring?

Thursday's bombshell startled Premier Kathleen Wynne — even though the gas-plants imbroglio has haunted her since succeeding McGuinty on Feb. 11, 2013.

She was visibly shaken in the morning question period when news broke that McGuinty's last chief of staff, David Livingston, is suspected by police of committing breach-of-trust involving the deletion of government emails.

Three hours later, a steely-eyed Wynne, flanked by her chief of staff Tom Teahen, distanced her administration from the McGuinty-era scandal.

"These serious allegations are very disturbing," she said. "That is not the way a premier's office should conduct itself and it is not the way my office operates.

"I want to be clear: This individual does not work in my office (or) in my government. Nor has he ever worked in my government," said Wynne, referring to Livingston.

The premier stressed that along with releasing more than 326,000 documents and emails related to the gas plants, she has changed the rules to better safeguard documents and limit the power of political staffers.

Two hours after her mid-afternoon statement, a feisty Wynne met with reporters for a third time at 5:20 p.m.

"I was not in the premier's office until Feb. 11. I had no access to what the former chief of staff was or was not doing. I did not direct the activities in the premier's office until Feb. 11. I had no knowledge and no ability to direct any of the activities," she said.

Not good enough, said Progressive Conservative Leader Tim Hudak, who asserted that the allegations amount to a "criminal cover-up" and one of the worst political scandals in Ontario's history.

"Clearly, the Liberals intentionally blew over a billion dollars to save a couple of seats in that (2011) election campaign and then intentionally covered that up," he said.

Given the OPP allegations, Hudak said it's time NDP Leader Andrea Horwath stops propping up Wynne's minority Liberals. He implored his NDP rival to join with the Tories in defeating Finance Minister Charles Sousa's budget, expected in May, to trigger a June election.

The NDP leader admitted the OPP revelations were "quite shocking" but repeatedly refused to commit to defeating the upcoming budget.

Behind the scenes, the NDP must weigh the risks of forcing an election that no recent public-opinion polls have indicated the party could win.

Anti-gang program gets $500,000

The federal government is giving a local organization for youth half-a-million dollars to launch an intensive gang intervention program.

Man assaulted by cops has charges tossed

Court. Judge concludes police 'lied, exaggerated and colluded' in reports of Curtis Young's detainment in 2012

A man assaulted in Toronto police custody has had the charges against him stayed — the only possible remedy, according to a judge, to "address the depth and the breadth of the serious police misconduct in this case."

Curtis Young was arrested in January 2012 and charged with public intoxication, obstructing justice, and later assaulting and threatening police officers.

Earlier this month, Ontario Court Justice Donna Hackett ruled there were no grounds for the accusations that Young had assaulted or threatened the officers. She also found the officers — Constables Christopher Miller, Christopher Moorcroft, Joshua James and Adrian Piccolo — assaulted Young after he was brought to the 43 Division station in Scarborough and then "lied, exaggerated and colluded" in their reports of what happened.

The assaults were captured on cellblock video — what Hackett identified as crucial evidence against the police officers. Those videos remain secret as Torstar News Service continues to fight for them in court.

After earlier ruling that Young's charter rights had been breached, Hackett ruled Thursday that the proceedings against him would be stayed.

Quoted

"Thank God there was video."

Curtis Young

The Special Investigations Unit, which investigates cases of serious injury involving police, is now also conducting a preliminary investigation of the case, while the Toronto police professional standards unit continues to monitor the situation.

"Nothing short of a stay of proceedings can address the depth and the breadth of the serious police misconduct in this case and its negative impact on both the delivery of justice and the integrity of our justice system and law enforcement.... In my view, this would only serve to aggravate the assault on the integrity of our justice system occasioned by the officers in this case," Hackett said.

Afterward, outside court, Young was all smiles.

"I was very pleased with the judge's decision," he said. "Thank God there was video."

Several videos captured inside the police station the night Young was arrested were entered as exhibits at the trial in February 2013.

The Walrus, Toronto Life in violation of employment act

Unpaid internships. Mags had to show interns the door, others in the magazine industry may be next

The internship programs at two major magazines were effectively shut down this week by the Ministry of Labour.

After inspections last December, ministry officials issued compliance orders to Toronto Life and The Walrus magazines for violating several aspects of the Employment Standards Act related to wages.

"This means that, pending any appeal, the workers involved have to be paid," said a statement from ministry spokesman Bruce Skeaff.

The government was aware last fall that the majority of unpaid internships were likely illegal, if the intern was not enrolled in a high school, college or university program. Labour Minister Yasir Naqvi said enforcement officers would blitz workplaces for labour law compliance.

At a staff meeting Thursday, editorial interns at the Walrus were told their jobs would disappear at the end of the week. There are six unpaid interns working four to six month contracts. One was a student and is able to stay on.

Quoted

"I do realize the ethical dilemma of unpaid internships. But why make a fragile industry an enforcement priority as the Liberal government has?"

Simon Bredin, former Walrus intern

The magazine can continue the program, as long as the interns are paid. But the Walrus, which operates as a non-profit, doesn't have the budget for that, said editor and co-publisher John Macfarlane. He wrote an editor's note last fall praising the high quality work produced by the magazine's interns.

"It's not an option. If we had the money, we'd have been paying them already. The ministry knows this and the ministry is forcing us to shut down."

Of seven interns currently at Toronto Life, only two are allowed to stay, said Douglas Knight, CEO of Toronto Life's parent company, St. Joseph Media.

"After 20 years of running a hugely successful internship ... the (Ministry of Labour) decided to shut (it) down," Knight said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Yarn bombing, the knitting graffiti popularized in New York, has now landed in Toronto. WHO declares 'victory' over polio in India

'A day that we have dreamt about.' Once considered all but an impossibility, the country is now officially free of the 'dreaded disease'

A man tends to his polio-affected son in New Delhi Thursday. The WHO has formally declared India polio-free, with no new case of the disease detected in the country in the past three years. MANISH SWARUP/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The scourge of polio ends in India with a four-year-old girl, Rukhsar Khatoon, who became ill as a baby after her parents forgot to get her vaccinated.

Her barely perceptible limp the only lingering sign of the disease, Rukhsar was the last person to contract polio in the nation of 1.2 billion people.

The World Health Organization formally declared India polio-free on Thursday, after three years with no new cases. It said the milestone means the entire Southeast Asian region, home to a quarter of the world's population, is considered free of the disease.

Being declared polio-free once was considered all but impossible in a nation hobbled by corruption, poor sanitation and profound poverty. Although the disease could return, eradicating it is a landmark public health achievement.

This is "a day that we have dreamt about," said Poonam Khetrpal Singh, a WHO official at a ceremony in New Delhi to declare the entire Southeast Asian region free of the disease. Singh described it as "a day that all countries fought hard for, and a day when all stakeholders come together to celebrate the victory of mankind over a dreaded disease."

Polio facts

Polio is a vaccine-preventable disease that has been eradicated in most countries. But it still causes paralysis or death in some parts of the world, including Nigeria, Pakistan and Afghanistan.

- The virus attacks the central nervous system, causing paralysis of muscles that leave limbs stunted or withered.
- Children younger than five are especially vulnerable to the disease.

Health. Morning-after pill to carry weight warning

Emergency contraceptive pills known as the morning-after pill will soon carry new warnings about reduced effectiveness in women weighing more than 165 pounds.

Health Canada has asked companies to add warnings to packaging advising that the pills are less effective in women weighing 165 to 176 pounds and are not effective in women weighing more than that.

Women who weigh 165 pounds or more are advised to ask a health professional for advice on alternative methods of emergency contraception.

The morning-after pills available without prescription in Canada are Next Choice, Norlevo, Option 2 and Plan B.

The drugs are taken by women up to 72 hours after unprotected sex or a contraceptive accident, such as a condom breaking, to prevent pregnancy.

The pills contain a higher dose of levonorgestrel compared to regular birth control pills with this hormone and work by preventing ovulation or fertilization of an egg. They have no effect if a woman is already pregnant.

U.S. estimates 1 in 68 children has autism

The U.S. government increased its autism estimate on Thursday to 1 in 68 U.S. children. That's a 30 per cent jump from the last federal estimate of 1 in 88 children with autism or a related disorder. The latest calculation means autism is more than twice as common as officials said it was just seven years go.

This latest estimate by the Atlanta-based Centers for Disease Control and Prevention means autism affects roughly 1.2 million U.S. children and teens.

IMF offers Ukraine up to $18B in loans

New government. It finds itself caught between the demands of international creditors and a restive population

Western nations rushed to help Ukraine on Thursday, with the International Monetary Fund pledging up to $18 billion in loans, the UN condemning the vote that drove Crimea into Russian hands and the U.S. Congress considering even harsher sanctions against Russia.

Yet even with such intensive help to prop up Ukraine's teetering economy, the prime minister warned that all residents are going to feel pain from the necessary financial reforms ahead — and home energy prices are certain to rise quickly.

And if that wasn't enough, former Ukrainian prime minister Yulia Tymoshenko — one of the country's most polarizing figures — said she will run for president in the May 25 vote. The announcement is sure to usher in strong emotions in Ukraine's turbulent politics.

Russia, for its part, shrugged off the spotlight that was on Ukraine and the torrent of criticism directed at its annexation of Crimea. President Vladimir Putin's government announced it would set up its own payment system to rival Visa and MasterCard after the two companies pulled their services from some Russian banks in the wake of international sanctions.

Speaking in Rome, President Barack Obama called the swell of support a "concrete signal of how the world is united with Ukraine."

Necessary change

'Kamikaze government'

The reforms demanded by the IMF — which included raising taxes, freezing the minimum wage and hiking energy prices — will hit households hard and are likely to strain the interim government's hold on power.

"This is a kamikaze government that perfectly well understands that there is no other way to stabilize Ukraine," said Viktor Zamyatin, analyst with the Kyiv-based Razumkov Center think-tank.

BUILDING TRANSIT CAPACITY GOES HAND-IN-HAND WITH BUILDING FUNDING MOMENTUM

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

In last week's column, I referred to the need to secure sustained, affordable, guaranteed funding to enable the TTC to offer the improved service that Toronto needs and that customers rightly demand.

We need to convince all three levels of government of the compelling case for increased funding for transit, namely that if the TTC functions well, so does Toronto and, by extension, Ontario and Canada. Efficient, reliable transit has a proven link to the economic viability and vitality of successful cities and we cannot continue with the hand-to-mouth, stop-start funding that the TTC has had to live with in recent years.

For the TTC to deliver its vision of a transit system that makes Toronto proud, and for us to be able to modernize all aspects of our operation, we need to achieve a fairer mix of funding that redresses the balance between general, tax-funded subsidy and the amount that we ask riders to pay.

We're grateful that our Provincial and Federal partners have come to the table with essential contributions, and we aim to continue building on that momentum in order for our great city – and our neighbouring communities – to cut through traffic gridlock and fast track our economic prosperity.

Specifically, we need to convince the Province to restore shared funding of the cost of operating the TTC and to persuade Ottawa of the economic benefits of part-funding the $2.7-billion hole in our capital budget.

Increased, sustainable funding will give certainty to our plans and allow us to reduce crowding and improve service reliability more quickly – in addition to enabling us to expand service to keep pace with ever-rising demand.

In the face of competing demands for scarce funds, we can't just sit back and expect to be given what we need. So I will shortly lead a task force to Ottawa and Queen's Park to advocate for the TTC and to seek long-term funding to enable us to transform public transit in our city.

• Happy birthday to Canada's First Subway! On Sunday, March 30, the original Yonge Subway turns 60. Back on March 30, 1954, the TTC officially opened the 7.4-km Yonge line and its 12 stations: Eglinton, Davisville, St Clair, Summerhill, Rosedale, Bloor, Wellesley, College, Dundas, Queen, King and Union.

Construction begins in 1949

On September 8, 1949: Construction began on the Yonge project, a 7.4-km subway running under Yonge Street from Front Street to Eglinton Avenue. Construction comprised of 5.1 kms of cut-and-cover and 2.3 kms of open cut.

Canada's First Subway turns 60

It was dubbed "S" Day. On March 30, 1954, the TTC opened a new era in transportation for the nation with the operation of Canada's First Subway. The 7.4-km Yonge Subway stretched from Eglinton to Union. The Yonge line was the first post-war subway to be built in North America, and on March 30, 2014, it celebrates its 60th anniversary.

Yonge Street, looking north, from Front Street, 1949

In 1949, crews began a top lift excavation of Yonge Street, clearing the way for subway tunnel construction. This cut-and-cover method is similar to construction currently underway at Union Station, which will see an expanded concourse and new second platform.

Modern signals, 2014

Today: Investing in a modern subway signalling system, and maintaining subway track, signals and other infrastructure, is critical to providing a safe and reliable service for riders. The signalling system is being upgraded over the next several years. Combined with new Toronto Rocket trains, the re-signalling of the Yonge-University-Spadina Subway will ultimately allow the TTC to improve subway train headways (time between trains) as well as carry more people.

SUBWAY
60 YEARS YONGE
1954-2014

Opening ceremonies, 1954

On March 30, 1954, official opening ceremonies took place on Chaplin Crescent, opposite Davisville Station. More than 5,000 people were in attendance with Ontario Premier Leslie Frost, Toronto Mayor Allan Lamport, Metro Chairman Fred Gardiner and TTC Chairman William C. McBrien.

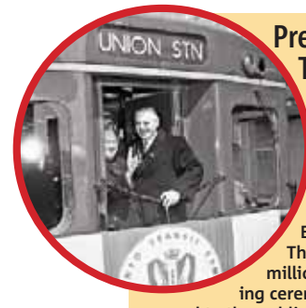
First subway cars, 1953

Canada's first two of 140 subway cars (Gloucester-built 5000 and 5001) arrived in Montreal from England in July 1953. The cars were transshipped to Toronto by rail. The TTC initially ordered 104 cars at a cost of $11.5 million. That year the CNE included a popular TTC exhibit, which featured the G-cars at a mock-up station. The last of the red G-cars was retired from service in 1990.

Modern Rockets, 2014

Today: Modern Toronto Rocket subway trains are replacing the TTC's oldest subway cars, most of which date from the 1970s. The renewal of the subway fleet will allow the TTC to meet future ridership demands once the Spadina Subway Extension opens in 2016.

Premier Frost, right, and TTC Chairman McBrien wave to crowds from the first official subway ride, 1954



On March 30, 1954: Canada's First Subway opened for business from Eglinton Station to Union Station. The subway was built at a cost of $67 million – including subway cars. Opening ceremonies began at 10 a.m. The line opened to the public at 1:30 p.m. Ontario Premier Leslie Frost and Toronto Mayor Allan Lamport officially started subway service with the pull of a switch.

CATCHING DREAMS

Day 1: the Problem
Day 2: the Plan
Day 3: the Promise

Upheaval is coming for First Nations schools. The federal government is planning to invest nearly $2 billion into the neglected system and give communities more control over their own education. Metro travelled to two on-reserve schools to document their condition, the details of the plan and why many people say the proposed changes may be their kids' last chance.

Feds set course — but not date

The road to the First Nations Control of First Nations Education Act has been a hard one.

After four years of dialogue, national outcry from indigenous people and a failed first draft, the federal government says it is finally on track to improving Canada's on-reserve education.

Shawn Atleo, national chief of the Assembly of First Nations, condemned the original First Nations Education Act in November 2013.

In an open letter to Bernard Valcourt, minister of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada, Atleo explained the document was "not acceptable" for First Nations in Canada.

Atleo said indigenous people need control over education, statutory funding, language and culture classes, no unilateral federal oversight and ongoing dialogue.

While critics of the draft say the federal government wasn't hearing what First Nations people were saying, Valcourt insists he heard them loud and clear.

"After we got the draft bill out, that's when the chiefs and the assembly considered the draft and outlined what they believed were the conditions necessary to ensure the success of an education system," he said.

But while Valcourt said the changes are historic, it may be a while before Canadians see them.

"That work is taking place as we speak and we have no timeline in terms of when this will be ready, but it is important that we continue the dialogue with First Nations."

Atleo said the commitments made by the federal government are a step in the right direction. "They put resources on the table," Atleo said in a recent interview.

Both Atleo and Valcourt said the road ahead would be challenging but worth it.

"This is for the benefit of the whole country," said Valcourt. "The First Nation leaders and chiefs and councillors I've talked to on reserve, they all want to be a part of a successful Canada, of a Canada where there is an opportunity for everyone provided that they have the tools — and this is a fundamental tool that they badly need."

Success stories

There are a few notable exceptions to the lacklustre First Nations education system in Canada.

- British Columbia. Indigenous communities have worked with the government on a unique system since the '90s. Their education authorities are providing a foundation for the federal proposals. Students can move seamlessly between First Nations and public schools.
- Nova Scotia. Mi'kmaw Kina'matnewey earned the right to control its education in 1999 and incorporates culturally sensitive curricula and indigenous language immersion. In the 2012-13 school year, it reported an 87.7 per cent high school graduation rate.

Making moving

Grade 4 teacher Myra Laponsee with her students at Sturgeon Lake Central School. While some teachers at on-reserve put forward by the federal government, others say it may be a step in the right direction to restoring First Nations culture.

Reclaiming what was lost. Teachers united in call for government to repair damage to native culture — but split on their current attempt

Want to know the impact of the funding deficit on aboriginal culture? Just ask a teacher.

Educators at two First Nations schools in central Saskatchewan say the federal government needs to do much more to teach on-reserve students about their history and culture.

They argue a lack of funding is denying students a chance to learn about First Nations traditions and languages, which were repressed and almost lost through Canada's residential schools system.

"They lost a part of themselves," says Grade 1 teacher Karen Rondeau, speaking in her small classroom at the Sturgeon Lake Central School, which serves the Sturgeon Lake First Nation.

"To make themselves whole again, they need their culture; they need their language; they need their traditions to be proud people and move on," Rondeau says. "(The Federal Government) took it away, so why not give it back?"

Through the First Nations Control of First Nations Education Act, Prime Minister Stephen Harper plans to release $1.252 billion in additional core funding for First Nations education over three years, starting in 2016. This, Harper says, would allow communities to "incorporate language and culture programming."

But with little information on how the money will be distributed, some, like Charlene Constant, who teaches Grade 1 at Bernard Constant Community School on the James Smith Cree Nation, are skeptical.

"It sounds like a big number," she says. "But once you break that down to all the bands in Canada and it goes through whoever it needs to go through … it's not going to be enough."

Myra Laponsee, who teaches Grade 4 at Sturgeon Lake Central School, feels the bill is a step forward in restoring First Nations traditions.

"I know it's really difficult to get (our culture) back, but it's possible; it's absolutely possible," she says.

"Right now, what they're trying to do, as First Nations people, it's only going to benefit us. It's not the government writing it for us this time, the way they did back then. It's us writing our own education act."

Giving kids a sporting chance

For some students in Canada, access to sport and athletics is as simple as putting their name on a sign-up sheet.

For some students on First Nations reserves, the thought is a pipe dream.

For the last five years, Blair Sands has taught physical education at Bernard Constant Community School on the James Smith First Nation in central Saskatchewan. He says his students are missing out on opportunities to nurture their athletic abilities and their future.

"There's no doubt in my mind that sports have a positive impact on young people," said Sands, as students zip by on small scooters in the gym.

Working with community members, parents and administrators, Sands started a non-profit booster club to raise funds for the school's athletics program, as his budget for the 2013-14 school year was set at roughly $500.

Blair Sands, the phys-ed teacher at Bernard Constant Community School, has started fundraising through a non-profit booster club to ensure his students have access to sports. MORGAN MODJESKI/METRO IN SASKATOON

"You can lower crime rates and you can lower drop-out rates if you have the right programming and the right people," he says.

Sands says they've raised roughly $20,000 in equipment and cash through provincial grants and contributions.

"If (youth) are in a sports program, they're not getting into trouble because they're playing volleyball, they're playing hockey or they're on the gym mat," he says. "I'm not a gambling man — but the odds are against you if you don't have positive things to influence your life, coaching and sports included."

Beating the odds

JACOB MORGAN

Athletics may well have saved Erralyn Thomas's life.

Thomas, the B.C. youth representative for the Assembly of First Nations, hails from the Snuneymuxw First Nation, located on the southeast part of Vancouver Island.

The 27-year-old says her school was the size of a trailer and sat between a railway and a highway.

"We had to turn people away," says Thomas. "It's not really safe." The graduation rate, she added, was around 40 per cent at the time she finished high school.

Her parents were alcoholics and left when she was 11 or 12, leaving her and her brother with their grandparents, who were residential school survivors.

"That affected their parenting," she says.

But Thomas found solace in sport. Her high school coaches took a personal interest when she was in trouble.

"I was out on the streets from 13 to 16, and so mentors and my coaches … helped me get here," she says.

Thomas earned a lacrosse scholarship to Niagara University and played in the 2009 women's lacrosse World Cup. Today, she is a law student at the University of British Columbia.

Building buzz for Lego subscription service for children

Toy story. Pley offers toy rentals for kids

Toy rental company Pley is laying down Lego foundations for global expansion.

The U.S.-based startup — dubbed the "Netflix for Lego" — is growing brick-by-brick after receiving millions in investment. Mother of two Elina Furman set up the company to cut the cost and clutter caused by children's rapid consumption of toys. The 15,000 members of Pley can rent and receive door-to-door delivery from a choice of thousands of Lego sets for a fee between $15 and $39 US. The founder explains why this venture is providing the educational building blocks for the future.

When did you see the gap in the market?

Eighteen months ago I had an avalanche of toys because of my other job as "A-List Mom" (a children's advice and ideas website). I thought, How can I manage this and reduce our footprint and at the same time give children access to educational toys rather than just cluttering our lives? So I started looking for an opportunity to rent.

What are you trying to teach children?

I'm moving away from the old consumer model based on material possessions and creating a community based on a sharing experience. Children have the responsibility of separating bricks, checking all the pieces are included and thinking about their ecological footprint. Also, parents want to get their children into Lego because of the cognitive and spatial awareness skills that can be gained by playing with the toy.

1 On the money. Who says being a writer doesn't pay? The Royal Canadian Mint unveiled a silver collector's coin honouring acclaimed Canadian author Alice Munro. The mint's president, Ian Bennett, says the coin is a "beautiful and meaningful keepsake for readers, writers and collectors alike." Know what I consider a meaningful keepsake? Her actual books.

2 The Juno Awards. Has anyone noticed this show getting a lot sexier over the last decade? With all-star guests like Arcade Fire, Michael Bublé and Avril Lavigne hitting Winnipeg like a warm spell, the Junos have become must-see TV. The only thing missing, sadly, is me.

3 J'accuse. The Parti Québécois has alleged that Anglos from outside Quebec are committing voter fraud and trying to "steal" the provincial election. Apparently hundreds of Ontario students have been denied voter registration despite having lived in Montreal for years. To be fair, it's not that they don't want people to vote. They just prefer the ones that are likely to vote for them.

4 En Vogue. Kim and Kanye were the "tweet of the town" after this week's Vogue pictorial, but what really struck me upon visiting her profile was the message on my screen that read "Sign up for the Kim Kardashian Newsletter and stay in the know," implying that there's anything about her that we still need to know. #VogueBacklash

5 Attention, Entourage fans. Good news: The long-awaited film version is currently being shot. All original cast members return as the circulating group-selfies confirm, including Sloan, played by homegirl Emmanuelle Chriqui and a huge list of secret celebrity cameos. The bad news? You'll have to wait till summer of 2015. #entouragemovie

6 Kroll Show. In this week's finale, American comic and star of The League Nick Kroll took it to our nation with a Degrassi spoof and other very amusing Canuck-based parodies. Because on the growing list of topics that are now taboo, Canadians are among the few people you're still allowed to openly mock.

7 #RobtheMob. Amidst all the big-budget films being released, this is one that's generating a remarkable level of positive buzz. After previews, Rob the Mob hits L.A. theatres Friday as this season's sneaky surprise with a solid cast, including Andy Garcia and Boardwalk Empire's Michael Pitt. Punctuating the film throughout are various versions of Stephen Endelman's original song Love and the Gun, a quietly epic retro-anthem sung by soon-to-be revealed secret superstar Tamela D'Amico.

8 Colon Cancer Canada. There's nothing funny about this disease, but their annual Push For Your Tush campaign does inspire a chuckle. Hockey legend Darryl Sittler always participates as his late wife was the inspiration for the fundraiser Wendy Bear. Warning: He's still pretty strong so do not attempt a surprise bodycheck like I did. Especially after he knocks you out the first time. Happening Canada-wide in the month of June, register now. @ColonCancerCDA #PushForYourTush

This bird's in fine feather

JOHANNES STOETTER/BOURNEMOUTH NEWS/REX FEATURES PHOTOS

Tropical parrot is a painted person

This may look like a typical holiday snap of a tropical parrot, but a closer inspection reveals it is in fact a painted person. The artwork is the latest offering from former world champion body painter Johannes Stoetter, who spent weeks painstakingly planning how he could transform a female model into an exotic bird. METRO

A close-up of the artist at work.

Discerning eyes needed to see woman

Despite all the difficulty, Stoetter was satisfied in the end.

"I feel very happy with the final work. Most people's reaction is 'nice photo of a parrot, where did you photograph it?'" the artist said.

"Even some of my closest friends who know me and my art didn't notice that it is not a real parrot. When they found out, they were really amazed and surprised." METRO

Cash is so passé. The idea of using credit, debit or (god forbid) actual money to buy something is fading out. The future is now full of mobile-swiping and button-clicking to achieve even the simplest of necessities such as food or drinks. Despite the hype surrounding bitcoins, most people seem hesitant about adopting the digital currency. Thanks to the proliferation of smartphone technology, now you can eat and drink without ever having to worry about cards or cash.

RE: The Reason Canadian Kids Suck At Math? They Aren't Doing It, says Paul Sullivan. Published March 25

This debate seems so 20-years-ago to me. People are even still talking about calculators. The elephant in the room here is the fact that everyone now has access to a super computer.

People graduate from high school without even being able to model simple physical systems outside some memorized formulas. Things don't get much better in university either. We are in the end going to have to rip out and replace a lot of our current curriculum.

So if things like the "discovery" system don't work, the answer is not to retreat to the old ways. The old ways don't work either.

We need to come up with some new ways...

Synopsis

After a quick recap of Old Testament highlights we meet Noah, the last descendant of Adam and Eve's son Seth. The world he lives in is a dangerous place, ruled by Cain's bloodthirsty bloodline, but Noah (Russell Crowe) and family (Jennifer Connelly, Douglas Booth, Emma Watson, Logan Lerman and Leo McHugh Carroll) live as nature-loving, proto-hippies. That is, until Noah has an— apocalyptic dream. Consulting with his grandfather Methuselah (Anthony Hopkins), he determines The Creator wants him to build an ark and laden it with two of every creature in advance of a great flood that will destroy mankind and the violence they perpetrate. But Noah will have to make some troubling decisions to fulfill God's will.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Crowe floats this boat

Up to the ark. Darren Aronofsky's art-house epic Noah rises above its biblical origins

Richard: Mark, the best way I can describe Noah is emotionally ambitious. It takes a familiar story and shines a new light on it by highlighting Noah's spiritual quandary. In the film — which takes liberties with the biblical story — he's a vegan prophet who grapples with doing God's will while balancing the needs of all of humanity, particularly his family. The meaning of faith and the consequences of adhering to that faith are the film's main thrust, but as interesting as that is, the movie feels like one thing when it is addressing the spiritual and quite another — possibly a Lord of the Rings movie — when it is in action movie mode.

Mark: Richard, I queasily bought the transition from religious allegory to action pic because I admired the tone and quality of the movie. I shuddered when I first heard about the picture, but then got interested when I found out Aronofsky was directing. Unlike most biblical epics, the dialogue isn't embarrassing and the lead actor isn't over the top.

RC: It's not your father's biblical epic, that's for sure. This is an art-house epic that filters the story through Aronofsky's impressionistic style. Some may criticize the movie for not being reverent enough, but I thought he treated the story as a living, breathing thing and not an artifact from another time. But having said that, Aronofsky moves in mysterious ways. He shot the epic almost entirely in close-up, and the flood scene could have used a bit more Cecil B. DeMille.

MB: He also indulged in some sci-fi flourishes I don't remember from the Bible! But I accepted them as part of the world of wonder when the Earth was a pre-prehistoric place. The movie has a strong environmental message and also feels critical of doctrinaire religious fundamentalism. Noah, at the end, almost makes a choice that only a deranged religious kook would make. Speaking of which, what did you think of Russell Crowe?

RC: Crowe's been in a bit of a slump in recent years. The dangerous, complex actor of movies like Gladiator and A Beautiful Mind seemed to have taken a backseat to the performer who thought making The Man with the Iron Fists was a good idea. Noah is a nice reminder of Crowe's delicate mix of fearsome masculinity and subtle sensitivity.

MB: I thought he was wonderfully restrained in the part even when he was deranged with fervour. My only complaint is that the movie peaks too soon. I guess there's a bit of a problem with the story... arc.

Sabotage puts Arnie under the gun

Where the action is. New film finds star revving up his shooting and his acting skills

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Arnold Schwarzenegger in Sabotage. CONTRIBUTED

Given his resumé, it's understandable that Arnold Schwarzenegger would think he knew all there is to know about action movies. So naturally when Sabotage director David Ayer suggested the former California governor sign up for some weapons training prior to filming, he balked. "Why do I need weapons training? I mean, I've shot more guns than anyone in movie history and killed more people than anyone, so why do we need to go through weapons training?" he remembers thinking.

But Schwarzenegger was actually impressed by Ayer's push for realism and technical accuracy — and with just the fact that the End of Watch director had work for the Terminator star to do at all.

"I love that he pushed me," he says. "Sometimes directors get intimidated when they meet someone like me. They say, 'I'm looking forward to working with you' and 'Let's just figure out how we're going to get ready for the movie,' and those kinds of things. But David came in and was very clear with the set of things that needed to be done."

He also knows that the filmmaking world has changed a lot since his action heyday, and because of that, a decent amount of preparation goes a long way.

"When you get to the set, the day is not anymore like in the '80s and '90s where a studio would raise $100 million and you would have a great action movie. Those were the old days," Schwarzenegger says. "The budgets are half of what they used to be because the rest of the money is being used for the franchise movies and the big sequels and stuff like that. It's a different world but you have to adjust to that."

Making Sabotage didn't just present Schwarzenegger with a new kind of filmmaking experience but also a new type of character to play. "From an acting point of view, it was the most challenging because I've never played a character like this," he says of his role in the morally murky DEA thriller. "My characters usually play black-and-white and I'm the good guy and I upset the bad guys, and then with a little bit of humour throughout the movie and that's it," he says.

Zac Efron ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

It beggars belief that Efron fought tramps — not such a glass act after all, Zac

Zac Efron seems to be having a hard time keeping out of trouble. The latest incident for the clean and sober star involves getting into a fight with a transient near L.A.'s Skid Row, according to TMZ. Efron and his bodyguard were reportedly stranded near an underpass of the 110 freeway after their car ran out of gas earlier this week and attracted the anger of nearby homeless men when Efron tossed out a glass bottle that shattered near an encampment. Tensions between the homeless men and Efron's camp escalated, with the High School Musical star reportedly taking a punch to the mouth. No arrests were made, as police could not single out anyone as the instigator in the "mutual combat" situation, according to police reports.

METRO DISH

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

There's Snow doubt at all fans want to see shy Kit's body

MELINDA TAUB
Metro World News

You can't be a Game of Thrones star and be a prude. If you want to wash your hair, conceal your butt and leave your mother unscandalized, you'd better go into accounting. So sayeth Kit Harington, who stars as Jon Snow in the HBO epic, for now, until his character gets eaten by the Lannisters or something.

"It's only right, if you're going to make a show where nudity and sex is a large part of it, that you be a part of that," he told GQ.

As a matter of fact, Kit's parts have not yet been a part of that. The one time we saw Jon Snow's butt jumping into a river, Kit had a broken ankle and a stand-in had to perform the scene. He's not raring to take his turn stripping down, though. "I wouldn't say I'd be happy about it," he said. "I'm not saying (if I would do a nude scene). Because I don't know. It would have to be f—ing well deserved." I'll tell you who well deserves it: The show's female (and gay) fans, who have sat through breast after breast after breast, "well deserved" or not. But do what you want, Kit.

Gwyneth Paltrow

Was Gwyneth's split from Chris due to a mid-life crisis — and will she regret it?

Sources close to Gwyneth Paltrow think her split from husband Chris Martin could be due to a mid-life crisis she's currently weathering. "It does seem she is having a mid-life crisis," a source tells Radar Online. "To say she is obsessed with her physical appearance is also an understatement. Turning 40 seemed to do something to her psyche. She could very well regret the decision to separate from Chris. He is an amazing father and very supportive spouse."

Liquid Assets

More to love about Italy

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

Italy is a big chunk of the wine world. With 20 regions, and close to 1,000 different grapes growing, it ranks second only to France when tallying up total wine production.

Trouble is, even with so much variety, the wines from Veneto (Valpolicella and Pinot Grigio) and Tuscany (Chianti) make up the majority of what the average Canadian wine drinker is buying.

That leaves a lot of room for discovery, and a good place to start your journey is the central Italian region of Abruzzo — the country's fifth largest winemaker. The montepulciano grape calls the area home and it creates easy-drinking wines with a dark red colour, balanced acidity and rounded tannins, making them food-friendly and sippable by their lonesome.

Illuminati's 2012 Riparosso Montepulciano d'Abruzzo ($14.10 - $16.95) is a modern take on the style that spends only six months aging in oak which allows a dark, jammy goodness to dominate. Its ripe plummy flavour and dried cherry finish is an ideal partner for lamb, pasta with meat sauces, beefy burgers and aged cheeses. PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

ROM PROM

Date: Mar. 29
Location: Royal Ontario Museum

Part costume party, part professional and social networking opportunity, and full-on excuse to take complete advantage of an early 'spring' Saturday night out, ROM PROM is the Young Patron's Circle's largest fundraiser for the Royal Ontario Museum. Inspired by the ROM's Centennial exhibition, Forbidden PROM will be a night of live entertainment, dancing, gourmet fare, Chinese astrology readings, and tempting lounge areas. It's fancy time, people.

D.W. Alexander

Date: Apr. 3
Location: D.W. Alexander, 19 Church St.

We're having a party and we want you to come. D.W. Alexander recently opened its doors in the St. Lawrence Market neighbourhood and we plan on bringing you along to mark the occasion. 'Cause it's not everyday a true Canadian cocktail bar sets up shop (they specialize in rye-based drinks). We'll be hosting a Notable Night in celebration of the recent launch of this downtown gem and we want you to be there. Hit up Notable.ca to see how you can gain access to this exclusive throwdown.

Easter weekend

Date: Apr. 18, 19, 20, 21
Location: Everywhere

Forget the Easter Bunny for now, because this is all about planning to get the most out of your long weekend. Maybe it's religious, maybe it's not. Either way, we're not here to get into your business. We just want you to be thinking ahead and sorting out how you're going to be spending that extra day (or two) away from the office. It's been a long winter for all of us and while a day off isn't much, it's definitely better than more polar vortex.

Aretha Franklin

Date: Apr.12
Location: Roy Thomson Hall

Rolling Stone named her the greatest singer of all time, to which Mary J. Blige added, "You know a force from heaven. You know something that God made. And Aretha is a gift from God. When it comes to expressing yourself through song, there is no one who can touch her. She is the reason why women want to sing." Amen to that. Go out and show a little respect (sorry, we had to) for the first woman to ever be inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame.

Earth Hour

Date: Mar. 29
Location: Earth

Tomorrow night from 8:30 until 9:30 p.m. local time, we're going dark. And if ordinarily well-lit world landmarks such as the Eiffel Tower, Big Ben, Times Square, and the Vegas Strip can handle an hour of shutdown, we're pretty sure your life won't end if you power down, too. Also the fact that Vancouver was crowned as the first-ever Global Earth Hour Capital last year means we have to participate. Those guys hate it when we beat them at anything.

Blue Jays

Date: Apr. 4
Location: Rogers Centre

The boys of summer are back (apparently no one told them it's still freezing outside). And while they officially start their season on a four-game series in Tampa Bay on Monday, we're really looking forward to seeing them in person at the home opener on the 4th — against the Yankees, no less. Too many people have already written the Jays off, but we happen to know that some significant baseball insiders are saying this could be the sleeper team of the year. You heard it here first.

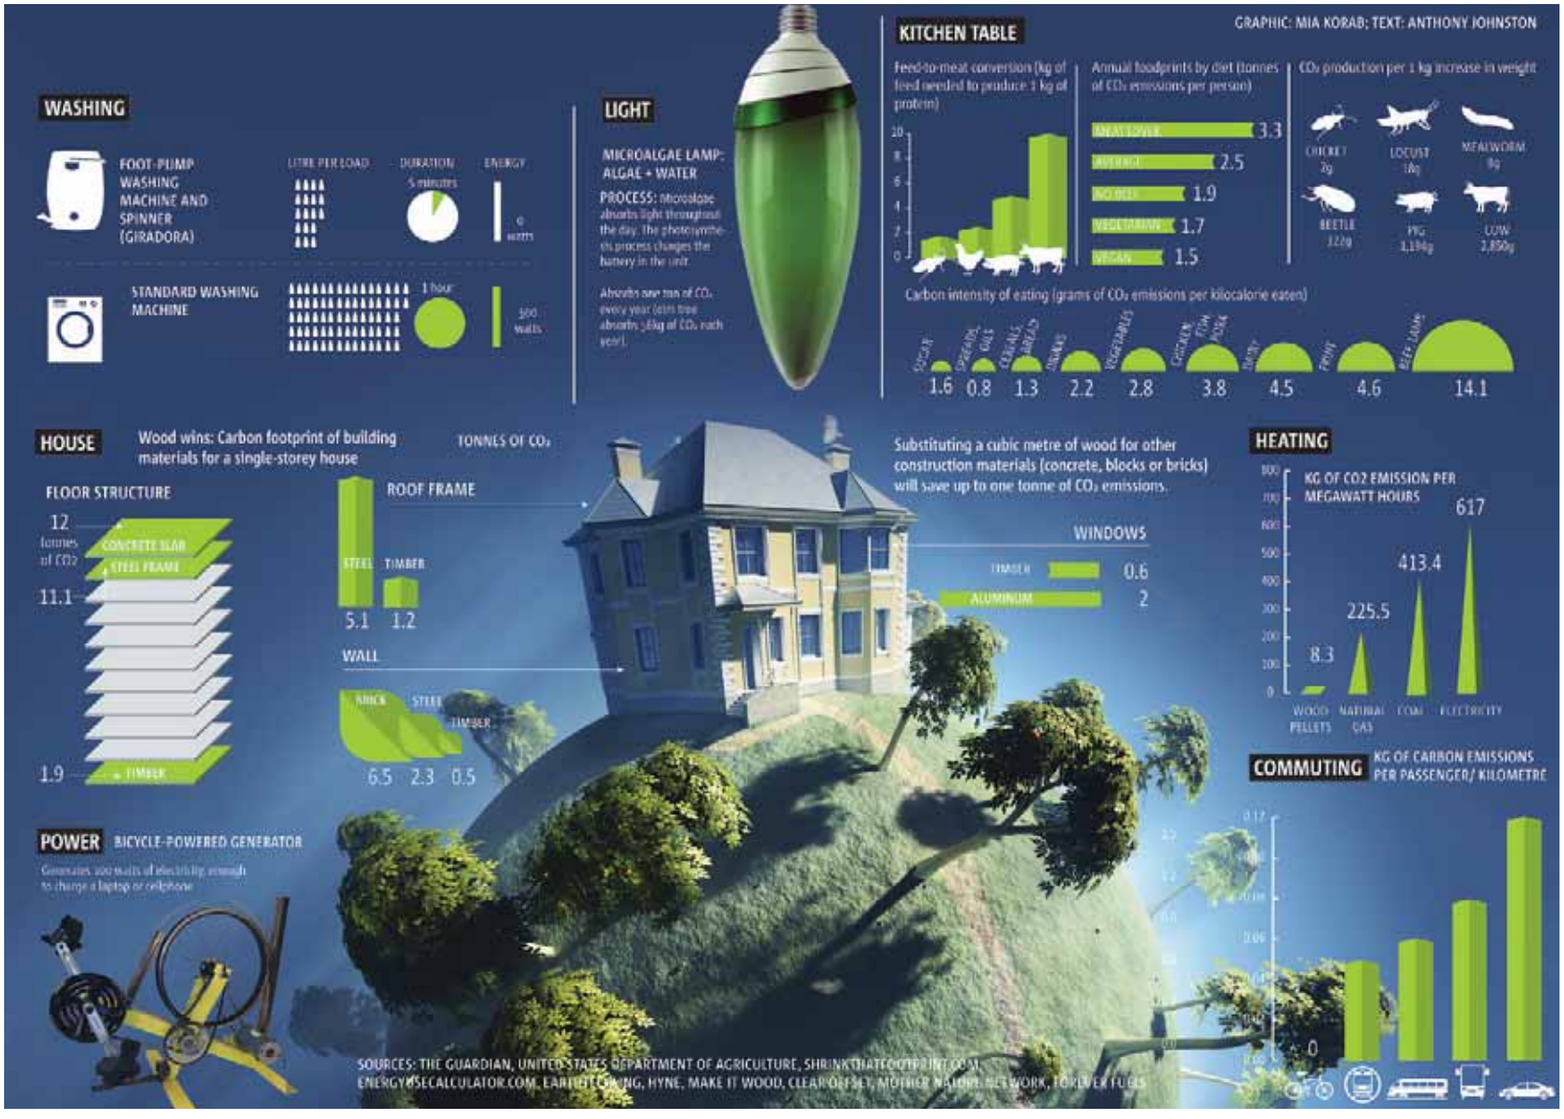
How to live green for real in your home



3 reasons why you should turn off the lights this Saturday

Be a superhero for the planet

Each one of us is powerful — more than we think — when it comes to the choices we make about what we consume, how we use resources, the products we buy and how we reuse and recycle. These efforts, multiplied around the world, have a major impact on the planet.

Earth Hour is this Saturday. In homes and cities all around the world, at 8:30 p.m. local time, people will switch off their lights as a symbolic demonstration of their commitment to conserve the planet.

WWF is excited about this year's partnership with Spider-Man for Earth Hour. And it is hugely inspiring that the stars of the The Amazing Spider-Man 2 — Andrew Garfield, Emma Stone and Jamie Foxx, along with director Marc Webb — are lending their support.

You, too, can help by switching off your lights for Earth Hour this weekend, but also in the ways you live your daily life and the choices you make, every day of the year.

Use the power of the crowd

The 2014 Earth Hour also sees the launch of an innovative digital crowdfunding and crowdsourcing platform, Earth Hour Blue, which aims to harness the power of the crowd to raise funds and awareness for essential on-the-ground environmental projects around the world.

With a few simple clicks, you can help deliver energy-efficient stoves to families in Madagascar, help communities in the Philippines build fibre-glass boats to withstand climate impacts like Typhoon Haiyan, support conservation of the iconic Table Mountain National Park in South Africa, and provide better equipment for WWF rangers protecting Indonesia's endangered wildlife — like the Sumatran tiger, elephant, rhino and orangutan, and their forest home.

You can also show your support for essential conservation projects around the world by adding your voice to important digital campaigns — such as helping end shark-finning in marine waters for the consumption of shark fin soup, and saving the Great Barrier Reef in Australia.

We love cities

Odds are you're reading this on your daily commute. Today, more than half of us live in urban spaces, generating more than 70 per cent of the world's CO2 emissions. But there is so much we can do to reduce our footprint on the planet, even in cities.

WWF's Earth Hour City Challenge was created to mobilize action and support from cities in the essential global transition towards a resilient, climate-smart future. The challenge celebrates and encourages the best of urban green innovations, in areas ranging from cleaner energy to more efficient buildings and less waste. Fourteen national winners and one global Earth Hour Capital are being announced this week, decided in part by the thousands of votes received online from citizens around the world.

It really is up to each one of us to save the planet — individually, as businesses or governments, and in groups of concerned citizens committed to bringing about positive change for this amazing planet we call home. And to do that, we all need to channel our inner superhero!

JIM LEAPE, DIRECTOR GENERAL OF WWF INTERNATIONAL

Dayton's day yet to come

NCAA basketball. Stanford comes up short in battle of underdogs as Dayton books ticket to Elite Eight

Jordan Sibert scored 18 points, Kendall Pollard added a season-high 12 and Dayton rolled past Stanford 82-72 on Thursday to make the NCAA tournament's Elite Eight for the first time since 1984.

No. 11 Dayton (26-10) continued its underdog run and this one wasn't particularly close in Memphis, Tenn. The six-foot-four Sibert was spectacular, slashing to the basket and draining three-pointers, to help the Flyers lead for almost the entire night.

Dayton showed its depth early, using 12 players in the first half to slowly wear Stanford down.

No. 10 Stanford (23-13) had the superior post play, but it wasn't enough. Chasson Randle led the Cardinal with 21 points, but shot 5-for-21 from the field.

Dwight Powell of Toronto added 17 and Thornhill, Ont., native Stefan Nastic — who fouled out with more than five minutes left — had 15.

Dayton plays the winner of UCLA-Florida on Saturday.

In Anaheim, Frank Kaminsky scored 19 points and blocked six shots, and Wisconsin romped into the West Regional final with a dominant 69-52 victory over Baylor on Thursday night.

NBA

Sucks to be Sixers

The Philadelphia 76ers tied the NBA record with their 26th straight loss Thursday night, as James Harden's triple-double led the Houston Rockets to a 120-98 win.

Harden had 26 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists in three quarters for his second career triple-double as Houston picked up its fifth straight victory. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Raonic upstaged by Nadal

Rafael Nadal advanced to the semifinals of the Sony Open by coming back to beat Milos Raonic 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 on Thursday night.

NHL. Phaneuf faces the music on not facing the media

Dion Phaneuf admits he made a mistake.

The Toronto captain said Thursday he erred in not talking to reporters following the Maple Leafs' 5-3 home loss Tuesday night to the St. Louis Blues. Phaneuf was widely criticized for blowing off the media following the club's sixth straight loss that dropped it to 10th in the Eastern Conference standings.

"I should've been available, that's about all I'm going to say about it," the veteran defenceman said following Thursday's practice. "I can't remember the last time I didn't make myself available but I should've been available."

Dion Phaneuf GETTY IMAGES

On Wednesday, a day off for the Leafs, Phaneuf told a Toronto all-sports radio station he didn't talk because he was too emotional following the loss.

"I just didn't play well enough," he said. "Bottom line, I wasn't even close to the level I have to play at."

A look at storylines to keep track of this season with the Toronto Blue Jays

THE CANADIAN PRESS
Photos by Torstar News Service

Anthopoulos-Gibbons

General manager Alex Anthopoulos brought John Gibbons back last season to manage the Jays after John Farrell departed for Boston. Even with a big roster shakeup, the team failed big time in 2013. If Toronto continues to fail on the field, how much longer do Anthopoulos, or the affable Gibbons, have?

Starting pitching

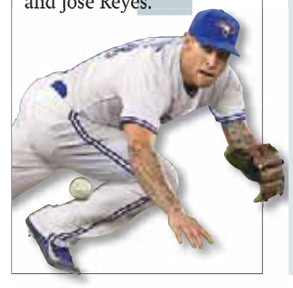
There are more than a few question marks here, which isn't promising considering the Jays starters went 46-57 last season with a 4.81 ERA. Knuckleballer R.A. Dickey, lefthander Mark Buehrle and Brandon Morrow lead the rotation with Drew Hutchison and Dustin McGowan completing the quintet — at least to start with.

Attendance

About the only thing that went up last year for the Blue Jays was attendance. Despite the poor results, 2013 attendance reached 2,536,562 for an average of 31,315 at the Rogers Centre. That marked a considerable jump from 2012 when attendance totalled 2,099,663 for an average of 25,921. Will Toronto fans remain on the bandwagon if the product disappoints again this season?

Defence

One positive this season looks to be defence with a healthy Melky Cabrera plus Colby Rasmus and Jose Bautista in the outfield and Ryan Goins adding his fielding skills to an infield already brimming with talent in that area with Brett Lawrie and Jose Reyes.



The bench

With Toronto going with an eight-man bullpen, the Jays bench will be very thin. Backup catcher Josh Thole, whose main job is to handle Dickey, is a career .251 hitter whose average dropped to .175 in limited major-league action last season. The other two are outfielder Moises Sierra and utility infielder Maicer Izturis.

MLB spring training

Hutchison ready for the real thing

Drew Hutchison gave up one hit in 5 1/3 scoreless innings and led the Toronto Blue Jays past the Philadelphia Phillies 3-0 on Thursday.

Hutchison is scheduled to start Toronto's second regular-season game against the Tampa Bay Rays on Tuesday. He allowed a single to Jimmy Rollins in the fourth, walked three and struck out three.

The right-hander beat out several candidates, including Todd Redmond, Esmil Rogers and Ricky Romero, for a spot in the rotation. He was 5-3 with a 4.60 ERA in 11 starts as a rookie in 2012.

Dioner Navarro hit a sacrifice fly off Phillies starter A.J. Burnett in the fourth. Gabe Jacobo added a two-run single in the eighth.

Burnett gave up three hits with one walk and six strikeouts in five innings. The right-hander signed a two-year, $22.5-million deal with Philadelphia in February. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
The planets will give you the confidence to let important people know what you are capable of. Don't worry that they might think you are being too pushy because that's just what they are looking for.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Money matters and career issues are under good influences today, so be brave and make the first move if you feel there is cash to be made or a promotion to be won.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
With communications planet Mercury linked to Pluto in your opposite sign today you won't hesitate to call it as you see it. Some people may be shocked that you are so outspoken but you won't care in the slightest.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
If someone suggests you need to prove your commitment, maybe you should reconsider the status of your relationship. As far as you are concerned, it is a partnership of equals. If they can't agree, say goodbye.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
You're in a rebellious mood and may do something that shocks friends and enemies. Good. Too many people have been taking you for granted.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You will know if someone is lying to you today. There is no way they can pull the wool over your eyes. Whether or not you let them know you are not fooled is up to you. It may benefit you to play dumb.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Reach out to someone you have not seen or heard from in a while. Not only will you have plenty of gossip to catch up on, you may find your long-term plans coincide nicely.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
You may be a rebel by nature but this is not a good time to rock the boat. Instead, find out what assistance friends and family members need and do what you can to help them realize their goals.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Pluto in your sign endows you with the courage to get things done, and today and over the weekend you will push yourself harder than you have done for a long time. But it's not just about physical effort. Think harder, and deeper, too.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
An investment you made a while back will pay off today and you will be glad you had the sense to act on what your inner voice told you. What it's telling you now is to not get carried away.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Even if you are the kind of Pisces who does not like to rock the boat, you will let certain people know where they have been going wrong.
